Adventure Seeds

The following pages are full of ideas that are concise and open-ended yet still rich in potential — designed to ignite the creative process and inspire GMs to string sessions together into full campaigns.

Underwater Combat

How underwater combat is handled is up to you. Suggestions and a new weapon (Spear Gun) can be found on pg. 57.

How to Begin

Crawlers arrive in Barnacle Bay (pg. 40) and can explore the town.

You can either have them:

- ★ Begin with an old ship* (they can upgrade later).
- ★ Earn a ship* by completing the Tomb of the Tides (pg. 55)

* Use the first two columns of table on pg. 38 to generate a ship name.

Random Adventures

For more pirate-themed adventuring, In Search of Lost Treasure (pg. 71) describes other legendary relics waiting to be discovered.

For replayability: the lost treasure, its location, map, and which NPC knows about it can all be randomly generated — over 4,000 combinations!

HEX KEY

6234 THE RED TANTRUM

Volcano shrouded in dark, roiling clouds. When The Red Tantrum erupts without warning, its lava is supercooled by the sea, forming jagged obsidian monoliths all around it. For days after eruptions, the region is cloaked in darkness.

A clan of eight Ember Giants and their leader, Gromar Stormforge, dwell inside the volcano. With red-black skin that glows like embers, they use the darkness following eruptions to pillage the land.

6240 STRANDED MAN

Azby O'Doole, a seemingly innocent man, lives within a circle of hut-sized conch shells on an otherwise deserted island. Marooned long ago by the Monks of St. Allesandra (see Monastery Plague 6338), Azby is actually a trickster demon. The Monks created a protective circle made of shells to shield the world from his malevolence. Azby now hopes to persuade a passing ship to break the circle and take him to the mainland.

Brother Stimmlos, a Monk from the Abbey of St. Allesandra, is taking a vow of silence at Hermit Cave (7237). He is the only one who remembers why Azby was banished.

6243 GOD AMONG MEN

Conrad the Conjurer, a mage apprentice, accidentally ended up here years ago due to a misfire from Tidecaller, a powerful wand carved from driftwood. This mishap created the Forever Storm (6342). Conrad was content to stay when the Sandfolk on the island, convinced he had the power to summon storms, began to worship him.

6331 CONCEALED CAVES

Caves hidden behind rocks that jut out of the water like the fangs of an ancient sea monster. Long ago, pirates discovered the cave and thought themselves clever for hiding their ill-gotten loot within its depths. Only upon their return did they realize the cave was the lair of a Seaweed Behemoth. They fought valiantly, but in the end, the pirates were no match for the beast. The treasure still lies within, along with Revenants of the slain pirates.

6338 MONASTERY PLAGUE

A mysterious disease struck the Abbey of St. Allesandra after the inhabitants ate tainted fish (see Undead Sea 6840). The Monks and Abbot of St. Allesandra have suffered from severe memory loss for many months.

A decade ago, Abbot Benedict banished Azby O'Doole to a remote island (see Stranded Man 6240). Unfortunately, he and the Monks have all forgotten why.

A year ago, Brother Stimmlos left the abbey for a year of meditative silence (see Hermit Cave 7237). He is now the only one who remembers the threat that Azby poses to the world.

6342 FOREVER STORM

A violent storm perpetually churns here, believed to be a curse from Sister Agatha, a Brine Hag (see Alabaster Rock 6837).

In truth, the storm was accidentally created by Conrad the Conjuror (see God Among Men 6243). The area is extremely treacherous to navigate, and many ships have perished here over the years.

6436 McCLAVIN'S MEADERY

The McClavin Brothers — Finlay, Rory, and Hammish — were once inseparable, but now they are at war with each other. They vie for control of the apiary and its Giant Bees. Their infighting has disrupted the flow of mead (see The Slaughtering Hole Tavern in Barnacle Bay, 6733 and the Hook, Line, and Sinker 6636).

To boost her own mead business, the Smuggler Boss Valentina Graves uses her charm to make the brothers jealous of one another (see Smugglers' Hub 7036).

6439 BETHEL ASYLUM

The once-respected Bethel Asylum, perched on the rocky cliffs of Tandy Isle, has become a place of utter horror.

Harland Barker, a notorious pirate long thought dead, washed ashore after years of solitude in the Fey Ocean. Infested with fey parasites that warped his mind and body, he arrived at Bethel Asylum. Slowly, he infected both staff and patients with his madness. As his insanity spread, he began to rule over the asylum, commanding a court of subservient Harland Mutants. He believes himself a fey king and is driven by an insatiable desire for power and treasure.

Believed to be abandoned, the asylum was forgotten — until Gilda Montclair sent a message in a bottle. The message pleads for rescue and offers promises of treasure in return.

6531 PRISMATIC LAKE

A colorful lake, rich with strange mineral deposits. Each time a crawler takes water from the lake, it appears a random color and produces a random magical effect. When colors are mixed, they create unique effects (at GM's discretion).

A mixture in equal parts of four colors — red, blue, green and white — yields a rare and powerful potion called The Rainbow Elixir that allows lovers of nature to manipulate fire, water, earth, and air. Those who are not worthy and drink the potion with greed in their hearts will instead feel nature's wrath.

6534 LUCILLA'S DEMISE

In the shallow waters just off the coast lies the ill-fated shipwreck Lucilla. It is said to be haunted by the vengeful Ghosts of the merchant crew, who were sunk years ago by the Dunham Sulk Pirates. The ghosts of the Lucilla bargained for their souls with Shune the Vile and will not find peace until they exact their revenge, though they are unaware the Dunham Sulk Pirates are now also undead.

6538 WRECK OF THE MOORFOOT

The Moorfoot, often used to transport valuable treasure, was mysteriously shipwrecked deep inland — an event shrouded in legend. No one knows the wreck was actually caused by a rogue wave. Most believe a Squall Giant hurled the ship across the sea.

6540 TOWER IN THE SEA

A precarious tower juts from the sea, built by the wizard Dolfor the Red. At night, a pulsing red light emanates from the top floor as Dolfor works tirelessly on arcane experiments related to a device that can act as a portal to the Fey Ocean. Lately, Dolfor has been so consumed by his work that his promise to Glyndor Uloff is long forgotten (see Lake Thing 6731).

6636 HOOK, LINE, AND SINKER*

A saloon perched on a wide sandbar, full of scoundrels. Gambling events are held here, and the isolated location makes it difficult for would-be cheaters to escape. Mead deliveries have stopped recently, and the owners would pay to know why (see McClavin's Meadery 6436). The White Lodge Hunting Club hosts competitions here, awarding prizes for the most dangerous catch (see adventure).

6638 THORNBACK NARROWS

Jagged rocks pierce the water between two islands, poised to rip the hulls of passing ships. Legends speak of an ancient turtle beneath the waves. There is no truth to the tale — but even so, this may still be the last shortcut any ship ever takes.

6643 HYDRACRAB DOMAIN

A Hydracrab lurks beneath the waves, perched atop an underwater mountain. It regenerates two claws for every one that is severed, growing more formidable with each encounter — until it is defeated.

6731 THE LAKE THING

At every new moon, The Lake Thing rises from Lake Eldermoor and slithers toward Reveler's Rest (see Lucky Town 6732). To satisfy its insatiable hunger, the desperate townspeople offer a human sacrifice. The true history of the Lake Thing is a tragic tale. Glyndor Uloff was once a vain and handsome man, until he crossed the powerful wizard Dolfor the Red (see Tower in the Sea 6540). To teach the man a lesson in humility, Dolfor warped Glyndor into the monstrous creature that now torments Reveler's Rest. He promised to revert Glyndor to his former self after one year. It's now been a decade.

6732 LUCKY TOWN

The town of Reveler's Rest gained the ironic nickname Lucky Town. It appears innocent enough, but harbors a terrible secret. Fearful of the Lake Thing (6731), the residents offer human sacrifices every new moon to appease the beast that rises from the lake. Townsfolk hold lotteries to decide which resident will be next, but are eager to deceive an outsider into taking the sacrificial role instead.

This grim tradition keeps the town living in constant fear.

6733 BARNACLE BAY*

A bustling harbor town teeming with rogues and swindlers, existing in a state of disordered unity. Their motto is, "There is no law; there is only the code."

Within the Slaughtering Hole Tavern, a deep stone-walled pit houses Toby, a colossal White Worm. Drunks dare each other to "walk the plank" that juts out over the ominous hole. Others play the drinking game, Dwarven Shooters.

The mead supply has suddenly stopped. The owner of the Slaughtering Hole will pay to know why — and he'll throw in a bonus if crawlers can strike an exclusive deal with the McClavin Brothers (see 6436).

6738 CALAVAR'S LAST STAND

Fort Calavar once stood as a bastion against pirate attacks, but fell decades ago when rogues and swashbucklers overran its defenders. All that remains now are the Calavar Soldiers, dejected descendants of those brave defenders, clinging to hopes of restoring the fort to its former glory.

Their efforts took a dark turn when a ship called The Moontide arrived (see Vampire Wreck 6839). A trail of dried white kelp leads from the ship to the fort, where soldiers fell victim to Sea Vampires. Most have since been transformed into thralls known as Sea Vampire Insatiable, further darkening the fort's grim legacy.

6741 ABANDONED SHIP

Anchored to the seafloor, The Creaking Doom spins endlessly in place. The secret of its demise lies in its drooping black sails — actually a flock of Driftwind Bats. Below deck, the mummified crew remains undisturbed. When the ship was attacked, it was carrying crates of food, but one crate contains the preserved parts of dead monsters — valuable ingredients for a skilled potion maker.

6837 ALABASTER ROCK

A solitary, sun-bleached rock serves as home to a coven of Brine Hags, who disguise themselves as large black sea lions. Many believe Sister Agatha is incredibly powerful (see Forever Storm 6342) and she is happy to take the credit.

6839 VAMPIRE WRECK

The hull of The Moontide is lined with shattered coffins — remnants of the Blumenthals, a high-born family of Sea Vampires, driven from their homeland by fearful citizens.

When the ship ran aground, the vampires swarmed Fort Calavar (see Calavar's Last Stand 6738). A brittle trail of dried white kelp leads from the ship to the fort where soldiers were transformed into thralls known as Sea Vampire Insatiable.

Desperately hungry, the vampires also preyed on nearby sea life, giving rise to the cursed waters now known as the Undead Sea (6840).

6840 UNDEAD SEA

Sea Vampires and their thralls fed on local marine life, transforming it into undead creatures (see Vampire Wreck 6839). Bonefish, Death Rays, and Blood Sharks lurk beneath the thick seaweed that chokes the surface, while the undead thrive below.

6931 HUMPBACK HILL

A hilltop graveyard haunted by the vengeful spirit known as the Head of Brandimire, who is endlessly searching for Captain Jim Gray — the ex-lover who beheaded her and sailed away with the Dunham Sulk Pirates.

Haunted Toys lie on the graves of the Petrov children, who died very young.

A circle of rune-covered gravestones in one corner forms a teleportation circle.

A colorful coral reef teeming with Giant Sea Cucumbers, whose tentacles can be harvested to produce Magical Paints. These paints can be used to create Illusory Images, Pigment Guardians, Spectral Traps or Temporary Teleportation Circles.

7033 RUINED JETTY

A jetty once linked the Lighthouse to the mainland (see Lighthouse and Fog 7133). However, it was sabotaged by the Smuggler Boss and Smugglers to facilitate their operations under cover of darkness (see Smugglers' Hub 7036).

7034 SHIP GRAVEYARD*

With the lighthouse unlit for some time, this area is notoriously treacherous (see Lighthouse and Fog 7133). A large and precarious shipwreck graveyard lies below the surface. Rumor has it that secrets and valuable treasures lay waiting in the shipwrecks for those brave enough to navigate the waters. Silas McGraw (pg. 46) wants the wrecks explored to find his late wife's necklace (see Tomb of the Tides adventure pg. 55).

7036 SMUGGLERS' HUB

The secretive island, safeguarded by a powerful illusion spell, serves as a base of operations for Smugglers. They destroyed the jetty (see Ruined Jetty 7033) leading to the lighthouse to conduct their activities under cover of darkness (see Lighthouse and Fog 7133). They murdered several lighthouse keepers to perpetuate the rumor that the lighthouse was haunted.

Recently, the Smuggler Boss Valentina Graves fueled a bitter feud between The McClavin Brothers — using charm and deceit to stoke their rivalry and boost her own sales of smuggled mead.

7038 ANCIENT COLOSSUS

The lower half of a toppled statue juts out of the sea — remnants of a lost eldritch civilization (see Sunken City 7138). Beneath the waves, the upper half rests on the sea floor, revealing that the statue depicts an enormous Brackish Overlord.

7133 LIGHTHOUSE AND FOG

Years ago, Smuggler Boss Valentina Graves murdered the lighthouse keepers known as the Guardians of the Flame and spread a rumor that the lighthouse was haunted. For many years, the beacon remained dark (see Ruined Jetty 7033, Ship Graveyard 7034 and Smugglers' Hub 7036). Recently, a thick Doom Fog rolled in, and the lighthouse shines again after years of dormancy. The fog has awakened the vengeful Revenants of slain keepers — now restless spirits, seeking justice.

7138 SUNKEN CITY

Beneath the waves lies a lost city once inhabited by Brackish Underlings and a Brackish Overlord — now reduced to petrified coral formations. The ruins are home to Brinesharks, unaware that they dwell among a dormant power that could awaken if disturbed. Those who venture too deep feel the world begin to turn upside-down...and find themselves in the Fey Ocean (see Fey Sunken City (F702)).

7232 STINKY CHEESE

A family led by Fromager-in-Chief, Delby Bergris, produces cheese made from ambergris and fermented manatee milk. Bergris Cheese is known for its flavor, but the process is notoriously pungent — so the factory was built far from any complaining neighbors. In the basement, a Cheese Ooze — worshiped by Delby — has grown from discarded mold and is the most likely culprit behind a slew of missing workers at the factory.

7141 THE WHIRLPOOL

A massive whirlpool serves as a portal. Ships that spiral down into its depths vanish, only to resurface somewhere in the Fey Ocean. To determine their new location, roll 2d8 to select a random column and row on the Fey Ocean Hex Map.

7235 THE GREEN PHANTOM

Often mistaken for the ghost ship The Green Phantom, a huge Glow Turtle lives beneath a massive sea shelf, carrying a ship stuck to its back. Taverns brim with tall tales of the ship and its ghostly crew. There is an alternate entrance in the Fey Ocean (see Green Phantom F207).

7237 HERMIT CAVE

Brother Stimmlos of the Monks of St. Allesandra has taken a vow of silence and lived in such seclusion that he hasn't spoken to anyone for a year. Unaware of the mysterious disease that struck the Abbey of St. Allesandra — leaving the Abbot and Monks with severe memory loss — he is now sole keeper of the secret behind why Azby O'Doole was marooned a decade ago (see Stranded Man 6240 and Monastery Plague 6338).

THE FEY OCEAN

▲ North 1 hex = 6 miles

The Abyss

The black area surrounding the map is The Abyss. Hexes that border the black have waterfalls spilling into the nothingness of The Abyss (pg. 18).

Within Far of a waterfall:

Ship needs a DC 12 Maneuver (pg. 21) and Swimmers need a DC 18 STR or are pulled toward the edge.

FEY OCEAN HEX KEY

F202 ALBINO KRAKEN

The Albino Kraken is a titanic fey creature with long, crushing tentacles and a deadly pink stare. It buries itself deep in the white sandy sediment of the sea floor. Silas McGraw (pg. 46) seeks vengeance against the Albino Kraken for sinking his ship, The Crimson Terror.

F206 THE TWILIGHT ZONE

An evil darkness created by the archmage Morvath the Unseen, where standard torches are useless. Only magical light can penetrate the inky expanse. The Glow Turtle (see Green Phantom F207) uses the cover of this magical darkness to hide its lair in the Fey Ocean.

F207 THE GREEN PHANTOM

Often mistaken for the ghost ship The Green Phantom, a huge Glow Turtle lives beneath a sea shelf, carrying a ship stuck to its back. Taverns brim with tall tales of the ship and its ghostly crew. There is an alternate entrance (see Barnacle Isles Hex Map at Green Phantom 7235).

F304 BUMP ON A LOG BAR

A lively sandbar saloon where Merfolk and anthropomorphic sea creatures — Card Sharks, Lobstrosities, and Parrot Crabs — partake in games of chance. Rowena Blue concocts exotic cocktails called “weekly specials” for Morganthia (see Seaweed Hut F706). A portal in the basement connects to the basement of the Slaughtering Hole Tavern (see Area 2 of Barnacle Bay 6733).

F503 REEF-FOLK KINGDOM

Just beneath the waves lies a kingdom inhabited by the Reef-Folk, a vibrant community flourishing among colorful coral reefs. They have a complex society that embodies their connection to The Great Plimpus (see F604).

F506 ABYSSAL MAW

A feature, not a creature, of the Fey Ocean, this otherworldly maw spans miles. Thunder in the area is rumored to be its stomach rumbling. If swallowed, crawlers travel down its throat, riding a dangerous fairytale river known as the Gullet Stream. Along this grim waterway, they encounter Waterlog Rats, Fungal Trolls and vibrant, flying Parrot Crabs, before eventually being deposited in a random water hex on the Barnacle Isles Hex Map.

F604 THE GREAT PLIMPUS

The Great Plimpus Hole is a hex-wide opening in the ocean floor that appears to breathe, as if the sea itself were alive.

According to myth (see Reef-Folk Kingdom F503), it is the blowhole of the dreaming Plimpus — the Whale of Eternity — whose massive back is said to be the foundation of the Fey Ocean. Reef-Folk Elders believe that those brave enough to venture into the blowhole of the forever-slumbering Plimpus might be granted a Wish by the god in his dream-mind.

F607 LOST DIVING GEAR

An eerie sandbar littered with remnants of lost diving expeditions. Archaic Diving Suits lie half-buried along the black-sand beaches. Choked by thick seaweed and twisted by the Fey Ocean; the distorted gear seems to change positions from time to time — but never when someone looks directly at them. Yet crawlers swear they hear the creak and drag of them moving.

Helmets, once gleaming with a metallic sheen, are dulled by years of exposure to salt water. Many of them now contain Mind Barnacles, which burrow into the memories of those who dare to climb into the suits.

Each apparatus holds the warped spirit of a long-lost diver who ventured into the Fey Ocean depths and met with a strange — and often surreal — fate.

F702 FEY SUNKEN CITY

Beneath the waves lies a lost city once inhabited by Brackish Underlings and a Brackish Overlord — now reduced to petrified coral formations. The ruins are home to Brinesharks, unaware that they dwell among a dormant power that could awaken if disturbed. Those who venture too deep feel the world turn upside-down...and find themselves back in the Barnacle Isles (see Sunken City 7138).

F706 SEAWEED HUT

Within a muck-and-seaweed hut dwells the enigmatic hag known as Morganthia. Her darkly enchanted home is a place of surreal transformation — each visitor sees a different interior, shaped by their fears and desires. Morganthia's grotesque figure is draped in thick slime, with writhing catfish-like tendrils hanging from her mouth and milky, lidless eyes that ooze a viscous fluid. She invites visitors inside one by one, offering promises of power and wealth through dark bargains.

Her true intentions, however, are far from benevolent. She seeks to trick her victims into relinquishing pieces of themselves — everything from limbs to memories. These offerings are used to brew potent enchantments in a hydrothermal cauldron on the ocean floor.

Barkeep Rowena Blue (see Bump on a Log Bar F304) has struck a secret pact with her and slips one of her weekly specials to unsuspecting patrons.

THE ABYSS

Sailing Into The Abyss

Crawlers who sail over the edge of the world and into the Abyss find themselves in total nothingness. There is no light, no sound — only the echo of their own voices. They are in limbo.

As their eyes adjust, they see floating bodies with white featureless faces. These are The Forgotten.

The Edge Keeper's Offer

Out of the silence, a ghostly whisper drifts through the void — the voice of the invisible Edge Keeper.

The crawlers are given a single chance to prove themselves worthy of returning to the world of the living. This offer can only be made once per character.

They must choose: engage in the Battle of Shadows, or join the faceless masses of The Forgotten, forever lost in the Abyss.

The Battle of Shadows

Each player's Original crawler battles a Shadow version of themselves — identical in form, abilities, and equipment. Players have a minute to decide who will act first, then proceed in clockwise order as usual.

Each Crawler Battles

They decide on an action, then make two rolls:

- ★ 1st roll: Original attacks Shadow
- ★ 2nd roll: Shadow attacks Original
- ★ A roll of 20 destroys the target
- ★ A roll of 1 destroys the attacker

Continue until either the Original or the Shadow is destroyed.

Note: For faster play, let a single action determine the fate of each crawler.

If Shadow Wins...

- ▶ The Original joins the faceless legions of The Forgotten (body slowly loses all its features and turns ghostly white).

If Original Wins...

- ▶ Winner floats in a Triangle of Fire.
- ▶ After all fates determined, winners are branded by the Edge Keeper. The brand is a red triangle in the center of the forehead — only visible to other Abyss Walkers.
- ▶ Each player rolls a d20 on Returning From The Abyss table to see the lasting effect of The Abyss on their character.
- ▶ The winners are returned to the world in a place of their choosing at full HP.

LOCAL LEGENDS

All locals know these legends. Roll to use them as rumors, or weave them into conversations as you see fit. Each has some basis in truth, though the details are often exaggerated or distorted over time. Text in blue is for GM reference only.

d12 Local Legend

- 1 The eerie ghost ship known as The Green Phantom attacks ships on moonless nights. -- See Hexes 7235, F207 and Lost Treasure of The Green Phantom (pg. 74).
- 2 A magical pink ocean exists “out there somewhere,” but how to get there is a mystery. Captain Elias Scuttleton said he was documenting his journeys to and from the strange ocean before he went missing. -- See Scuttleton’s Log (pg. 63).
- 3 Fenric Tuttle, a local legend who went missing, was a diver and bold explorer. People often use his name in phrases such as, “even Fenric Tuttle wouldn’t dare do that,” and “you’re as bold as Fenric Tuttle.” -- See Lost Treasure of Fenric’s Last Dive (pg. 74).
- 4 When The Red Tantrum erupts, ash darkens the sky for days and huge fire beings roam the region. -- See Hex 6234 and Lost Treasure of Gromar Stormforge (pg. 74).
- 5 Sister Agatha (a Brine Hag) has otherworldly powers and once created a storm at sea that rages to this day. -- See Hexes 6243, 6342 and 6837.
- 6 A Squall Giant was once so angry that it hurled a ship called The Moorfoot clear across the sea and it landed up on a grassy hill. -- See Hex 6538 and Lost Treasure of The Moorfoot (pg. 74).
- 7 The White Lodge Hunting Club holds tournaments where teams compete to catch dangerous creatures. Winners are hailed as heroes and worshipped throughout the land. -- See Hex 6636 and Adventure on pg. 65.
- 8 Lucky Town visitors are often never heard from again. Townsfolk debate over whether it’s because the town is delightful or deadly. -- See Hex 6732.
- 9 Fort Calavar was once a proud military fort. Descendants of brave soldiers lived there for years, but recently the fort went eerily dark. -- See Hexes 6738 and 6839.
- 10 Years ago, the Lighthouse stopped working. After losing dozens of Lighthouse Keepers (aka Guardians of the Flame), townsfolk stopped volunteering. Recently, a strange gray fog rolled in and mysteriously the lighthouse is lit again. -- See Hexes 7036 and 7133.
- 11 Some people claim to have been branded in “the darkness at the end of the world.” These stories are often met with laughter, but a few believe. -- See pgs. 15-18.
- 12 Patrons of the Slaughtering Hole Tavern in Barnacle Bay say that a “treasure beyond your wildest dreams” can be found in Toby’s hole. They usually say this as a way to entice newcomers to Walk the Plank. -- See Hex 6733 \(Area 2\).

TAVERN GAMES

DWARVEN SHOOTERS

- ▶ Drinking version of Russian Roulette.

Rules:

1. Up to 6 participants wager same amount, add coins to a central pot.
2. The bartender secretly pours one shot for each participant.
3. One of these shots — known as “The Skunk” — is foul-tasting. It looks identical to the others and cannot be identified by smell.
4. The GM secretly assigns The Skunk to one of the numbered shots.
5. Players (and NPCs) roll to decide drinking order each round (lowest goes first). They then take turns in clockwise order selecting and drinking a shot.
6. Participant who drinks The Skunk is eliminated and must pass DC 12 CON or take 1d4 damage.
7. Once The Skunk is revealed, the round resets. Repeat steps above until only one drinker remains — that player wins the pot.

WALKING THE PLANK

- ▶ At back of tavern is a 20-foot-wide pit of unknown depth, home to a White Worm named Toby. Drunks dare each other to walk a narrow plank that juts out over the center of the pit, where Toby lurks in the darkness below.

Rules:

- ★ Getting caught cheating will get you thrown into the pit.
- ★ Wagers made by patrons who won't bet if they suspect game is rigged.
- ★ Plank Walker — called Toby's Chum — makes wager (see below).
- ★ The farther out you go, the higher the payout.
- ★ Winnings are dangled from a rope above the end of the plank.
- ★ Luck token can only be used once.
- ★ Toby always jumps up. DEX check to avoid being swallowed:

How Far Out	Win	DEX
1/4 way	1.5 x Bet	12
1/2 way	2 x Bet	15
All the way	3 x Bet	18

Outcome:

- ★ Success: Dodge Toby, win the money
- ★ Fail: Swallowed by Toby, all bets split among remaining gamblers.
- ★ Chicken Out: Mocked, must buy everyone in tavern a drink or else...

SILAS MCGRAW

OVERVIEW

Silas McGraw is a retired Pirate who spent many years on the open seas. Recently, he opened Sacks and Packs, a dockside business that sells “underwater light and breathing solutions for the seafaring adventurer.” With many years of experience at sea, Silas is an excellent source of advice and rumors. See Tomb of the Tides (pg. 55).

UNDERWATER LIGHT (10 GP EACH)

This product uses Torchjelly Sacks — mesh bags filled with glowing, bioluminescent jellyfish. They function like nature’s glow sticks. To activate: Shake vigorously for 1 round. Last for 1 hour (real time).

UNDERWATER BREATHING (25 GP EACH)

These Breathing Packs contain a specially bred cephalopod known as an Oxypus, designed to help adventurers breathe underwater. The highly effective (and disgusting) process involves allowing the Oxypus to snake its exhalation tube down your throat, which enables underwater breathing if an underwater light source is active. If the light is extinguished unexpectedly — or if a 1 is rolled while underwater — a mishap occurs (see below). Silas offers no refunds, claiming all failures are “acts of Shule.”

d6 Breathing Pack Mishaps

- 1 Oxypus stops working. You have 1d4 rounds to get to breathable air. Take 1d4 damage each round you breathe water. If reduced to 0 HP, you drown.
- 2 Oxypus tube makes you nauseous, DC 9 CON check to keep tube down your throat. On failure, you have 1d4 rounds to get to breathable air. After that, take 1d4 damage each round you breathe water. If reduced to 0 HP, you drown.
- 3 A violent muscle spasm in the Oxypus’s exhalation tube deals 1d6 damage.
- 4 Oxypus burps — releasing acid instead of air for 1 round. You take 1d4 damage.
- 5 You are struck by a strange vision from the mind of the Oxypus.
- 6 Oxypus produces mixture of oxygen and ink. Feels strange, but heals 1d4 HP.

4. SACKS AND PACKS

Silas McGraw (pg. 46) sells underwater light and breathing solutions. He lives in the small shack behind the shop.

Adventure: Can ask the crawling party to retrieve his late wife's necklace (see Tomb of the Tides adventure on pg. 55).

► SHACK. Smells of fish and seaweed. A cot, desk and dresser against a wall. Weathered floorboards.

Desk search reveals:

Floorboard search reveals:

- ★ Loose floorboard hides: 300 gp, Rope, Scroll of Alter Self, Scroll of Detect Magic, 2 Starfish Balms

Tomb of the Tides

1st or 2nd-Level Adventure for Shadowdark RPG

OVERVIEW

WHAT THE PLAYERS KNOW

Silas McGraw (see pg. 46) asks party to explore sunken ships that have piled up (see Ship Graveyard 7034) to retrieve a charm necklace from a lockbox in a broken ship that sank. The necklace belonged to his deceased wife and was being delivered to him by Captain Elias Scuttleton when the ship went down. Silas would retrieve it himself, but is too old to adventure anymore. He will take the party there in his boat, provide Breathing Packs for underwater breathing (one each, plus a spare) and three Torchjelly Sacks for underwater illumination. If the party does this favor for him, they will gain a valuable ally in Silas McGraw. His reward: a ship (or ship upgrade).

WHAT THE GAME MASTER KNOWS

The lockbox was in the broken ship, but has since fallen down into the deep chasm below the wrecks. The necklace is worthless beyond its sentimental value. The real treasure (of which Silas is unaware) is Scuttleton's Log (pg. 63), a ship log kept by the captain, which describes various ways to enter and exit the Fey Ocean.

Each day, a different log entry appears in the Ship's Log, replacing the entry that was there the previous day.

Entry 1 is replaced by Entry 2; Entry 2 is replaced by Entry 3, etc. When the journal reaches Entry 10, the next day it cycles back to Entry 1.

SHIP LOG ENTRIES

Ship Log Entry

- 1 Today, we ventured into the swirling depths of a formidable whirlpool, our ship boldly plunging into its tumultuous waters. After a wild descent that had the crew praying to their respective gods, we emerged in the enchanting waters of the Fey Ocean, where shades of pink and blue danced like fairies of the sea. The phantasmagoric beauty that surrounded us was unlike anything we had ever beheld. (see Hex 7141)
- 2 Today, as we swam through the ruins of an undersea city, ancient coral structures hinted at a lost eldritch civilization. In the far depths, a captivating pink light seemed to invite us to dive deeper. Then came a strange sensation, as if the entire ocean had turned upside-down. Down was now up! To our amazement, we discovered that the alluring pink light was the surface of the Fey Ocean above us! We had clearly been transported to another realm, far from our intended course. What mysteries lie ahead, we cannot yet tell. (see Hexes 7138 and F702, and Lost Treasure of the Sunken City on pg. 74)
- 3 Sunken City update: After several days looking for a way back, we decided to retrace our steps. We swam once more through the depths of the submerged city. At last, we spotted a brilliant light (this one blue) that revealed itself to be the very ocean from which we had first departed. We set sail for Barnacle Bay, eager to share what we had learned. Alas, no one believed a word of our account. (see Hexes 7138 and F702)
- 4 Today, we rescued a curious man named Barnaby who shared a harrowing tale of his time adrift in the Fey Ocean. He recounted a moment of terror when he was consumed by a gigantic mouth he claimed was many miles wide. But instead of succumbing to fear, he rode a powerful waterway that he called the Gullet Stream, which he claimed was filled with wondrous creatures. His strange journey eventually led him to "bob up like a cork" in the heart of the ocean where we happened upon him, and returned him to Barnacle Bay. Most pirates there say he is a compulsive liar. (see Hex F506)

SHIP LOG ENTRIES

Ship Log Entry

- 5 Yesterday, we met an intriguing character named Zacharia Van Hausen who regaled us with stories of his recent wanderings in the Fey Ocean. He claimed he and his crew had plummeted over a massive waterfall, tumbling them into a void as black as the ink on these pages. He said the void was “full of white bodies with no faces to speak of.”
- The tale grew stranger when he said that he and his frightened crew “battled our own shadows” and ultimately “found our way back to a world that nearly forgot us.”
- He attempted to demonstrate the truth of his rantings by showing us a glowing red mark on his forehead. Alas, we saw nothing there. For this reason, I find myself hesitant to include his bizarre claim in these pages, as it seems too fantastical to be true. Still, there may be something to glean from his tale. (see The Abyss on Fey Hex Map)
- 6 There is a curious red-haired wizard Dolfor who lives in a tower that juts out of the sea. He claims to have journeyed both to and from the Fey Ocean using a peculiar arcane device of his own design. This warrants further investigation, as the implications of this technology could unlock secrets hitherto unknown. (see Hex 6540)
- 7 This morning, we encountered Gilbertus Fairview, a rather inebriated individual who shared a most peculiar tale. He claimed to have donned an ancient diving suit that somehow transported him between Barnacle Bay and the Fey Ocean.
- While the Fey realm is undoubtedly a place of wonder and intrigue, this story stretches the bounds of credulity, far beyond what I find reasonable. Nonetheless, his enthusiasm is notable and, for now, I’m including his account herein. (see Hex F607)
- 8 A mysterious and dense fog rolled in this past fortnight and some of our crew took a rowboat to investigate. Eventually, they were enveloped in the thick fog and we could no longer see them. We heard them shouting to us, warning us about pink lights and an inky blackness before they vanished, rowboat and all.
- The superstitious crew believes this fog swept those unfortunate souls into the Fey Ocean. (see Doom Fog and Hexes 7133 and F206)
- 9 We spoke with the barkeep at the Bump on a Log — named Ramona or something like that — her name eludes me. Anyway she told us of a connection between her establishment and the Slaughtering Hole Tavern in Barnacle Bay. She insisted that a portal existed amidst the kegs stored in her tavern, a hidden gateway of sorts. Whether her claims hold any truth remains to be seen, but at the very least this warrants investigation. (see Rowena Blue, Hexes 6733 [Area 2] and F304)
- 10 Rumors flourish of a spectral vessel known as The Green Phantom, which is said to ferry souls back and forth between the oceans. However, one must be prepared to embrace the idea of sailing on a ghost ship. The mere thought of such an experience excites the imagination, prompting questions about the nature of this haunting vessel. We will continue our exploration, but the location (or very existence!) of the Green Phantom is as yet unproven. (see Glow Turtle, Hexes 7235 and F207)

The White Lodge Hunting Club

Adventure for Any Level for Shadowdark RPG

OVERVIEW

WHAT THE PLAYERS KNOW

The White Lodge Hunting Club (WLHC) is an organization that holds competitions in every type of environment. The goal is to catch deadly creatures — dead or alive. Most teams compete for prizes, but some go just for the thrill of the hunt.

- ★ The timeline varies. It could be an afternoon or a month.
- ★ Creatures brought in alive score double points.
- ★ Prizes and trophies are secret, but are highly sought after.
- ★ Teams are given Target List, but may catch other creatures.
- ★ Sabotaging other teams (without killing them) is allowed.
- ★ Cheating or lying is magically detected and met with severe consequences.
- ★ The WLHC provides boats, underwater light, breathing equipment and other assistance (pg. 67).
- ★ Purple flares (provided) can be fired and WLHC reps will collect dead monsters, but teams need to figure out how to bring in live monsters.
- ★ All creatures (dead or alive) become property of the WLHC.

WHAT THE GAME MASTER KNOWS

The WLHC sells and ships the creatures to various wealthy individuals. Some are chefs who need exotic ingredients, while others are upper-crust braggarts who display mounted heads in their dens and claim they single-handedly felled every beast. If teams are successful, the WLHC may ask them to go out on special missions.

AUTHOR'S NOTE

This idea was born out of a desire to run certain monsters but needing a simple excuse. It's perfect for West Marches or sandbox campaigns because players choose what they want to catch and where they want to go. In a more narrative-driven campaign, the WLHC can act as a recurring quest-giver.

The Target List can contain any regionally appropriate monsters you feel like running, including homebrew creations! Populate the region with whatever monsters you want!

Adaptable to any region/level and can be either a one-shot or a recurring event in longer campaigns.

RUNNING THE EVENT

- ▶ Belmont Pinkerton III hosts the event with 20 Henchmen (Pirates).

BELMONT PINKERTON III

- ★ Appearance. Dressed in white from head to toe, wears a monocle (Mage stats with the Zone of Truth spell)
 - ★ Attitude. Generous, gifted orator and salesman
 - ★ Secret. His generosity is only a ruse; any amount he spends is recouped via sales to his exclusive clientele.
- ▶ This event is specifically for aquatic creatures, but other events vary.
 - ▶ Choose a timeline that allows for travel time in the region. If hex crawling, a week or two is reasonable.
 - ▶ The WLHC provides scoresheets for teams to track their catches (pg. 108).
 - ▶ Players choose a Team Name.
 - ▶ At least one Rival Team is encouraged and should be portrayed as deplorable.
 - ▶ 2x per day (or at GM's discretion), have players roll a d6. On a roll of 1, they roll on the Random Encounter table for current environment (pgs. 24-36).

IDEAS FOR PRIZES

- ★ Magic items
- ★ A ship (or ship upgrade)
- ★ Ship weapons
- ★ Home or land in Barnacle Bay (6733)
- ★ Treasure map
- ★ Anything to incentivize players

RIVAL TEAMS

Determine names for Rival Team(s):

d8	Team Name
1	Reef Madness
2	The Bait and Switchers
3	The Reel Deal
4	The Barnacle Bandits
5	Anglers of Anarchy
6	The Tide Turners
7	Wave Warriors
8	The Kraken Killer Squad

ASSISTANCE

The WLHC staff is happy to assist with team requests (since they turn a heavy profit). Be careful not to make it too easy for players though by giving them too many healing potions, etc.

Assistance is provided in equal measure to all teams. The list includes, but is not limited to:

- ★ Healing at the end of every tournament day (if you survive)
- ★ Boats with fun weapons (pg. 23)
- ★ Ropes, Nets, Rods and Reels
- ★ Gaffing Hooks
- ★ Torchjelly Sacks for underwater light, and Breathing Packs for underwater breathing (courtesy of sponsor Silas McGraw, pg. 46)
- ★ Enchanted Lures to attract specific monsters, but be careful what you wish for (courtesy of sponsor Millie Monroe, pg. 47)

SCORING

SCORING

- ▶ Creatures worth their LV in stat block. Alive, they're worth double. At least two creatures of a swarm must be captured or killed to count.
- ▶ The minimum value is the average party level +2 (e.g. Level 4 crawlers score with Level 6 monsters or higher).
- ▶ Racking up points by collecting a boatload of easy prey is discouraged and is called "sandbagging." Blatant or excessive sandbaggers are sabotaged by rival teams.
- ▶ Only one creature of each kind will be accepted from each team. Variations of a species are allowed (e.g. two or three Brinesharks with distinct stat blocks).
- ▶ Keep the race dramatic: Every time players catch something, roll a d6:
 - ★ 1-2: Rivals catch something of slightly higher value
 - ★ 3-4: Rivals catch something of equal value
 - ★ 5-6: Rivals catch something of slightly lower value

MULTIPLE PLAYER TEAMS

- ▶ This is a natural fit for GMs who like to run tournament dungeons wherein multiple teams of players compete with (and possibly sabotage) each other.

CEREMONY

- ▶ At the conclusion of the competition, an extravagant banquet and award ceremony is held at the Hook, Line and Sinker (Hex 6636).
- ▶ Belmont Pinkerton III hands out medals, awards, and trophies, such as:
 - ★ White Lodge Championship Trophy (huge, the Stanley Cup of hunting)
 - ★ Most Dangerous Catch (gold trophy shaped like shark tooth)
 - ★ Most Exotic Catch (silver trophy shaped like one-eyed cephalopod)
 - ★ Toughest Fight (bronze trophy shaped like battered shield)
 - ★ Broken Compass (light-hearted mocking award like a Razzie, cheap copper trophy shaped like a cracked compass)
- ▶ The crawler team may be pulled aside and given access to:
 - ★ Further quests on behalf of the WLHC
 - ★ White Lodge Hunting Club permanent membership

LOST TREASURES

THE CRIMSON TERROR

A smuggling ship that once belonged to Silas McGraw before being sank by the Albino Kraken (F202). Silas claims he stopped drinking after the sinking of The Crimson Terror because he wanted to be ready to hunt the Albino Kraken. The real story is: when his ship sunk, it carried the Bottomless Jug of Grog, which fills once a day with fresh, delicious grog. Silas can't bring himself to ever pay for grog again.

Believing it to be a holy relic gifted to them by The Great Plimpus (F604), the jug was taken by Reef-Folk. It has since been stolen from them. Both the Reef-Folk and Silas want it back.

FENRIC'S LAST DIVE

Fenric Tuttle, a renowned diver, made a fantastic discovery while exploring the Fey Ocean floor. While fleeing a Great Black Marlin, he accidentally disturbed a layer of sediment and uncovered a full set of Leviathan Skin Armor. Fenric hid the armor away until he could research it further. The armor, he learned, was crafted by Morvath the Unseen, an archmage who still resides in the inky waters of The Twilight Zone (F206). Before he could retrieve the treasure, Fenric went missing.

FORT CALAVAR WAR CHEST

When the Soldiers at Fort Calavar (6738) were being overrun, they loaded a ship called Calavar's Pride with treasure they had stockpiled.

A young corporal, Reginald Allbright, fled with the treasure-laden ship. As a last desperate act while being pursued by greedy pirates, he steered the ship into a raging storm and was never seen or heard from again. The treasure contained:

- ▶ 6000 gp embossed with the letter "C" and the phrase, "For Liberty and Law"
- ▶ Merfolk Crown and Trident

THE GREEN PHANTOM

Before The Green Phantom was impaled on the back of the Glow Turtle, it carried a powerful magic item known as The Siren's Chalice (made from a conch shell). Legend says that when the chalice is filled with seawater, you can hear whispers of the ocean in the shell, revealing lost ships and hidden treasures. The Siren's Chalice, found by the Brine Hag Sister Agatha, is hidden in a cave so she can use it for her own gain.

See Alabaster Rock (6837).

GROMAR STORMFORGE

Whenever the Red Tantrum (6234) erupts and darkness covers The Barnacle Isles for days, the Ember Giant leader known as Gromar Stormforge, along with his Clan of Eight, use the cover of darkness following eruptions to pillage the land. The treasure they have stolen is tucked away in a cave. Among their treasure is The Lava-forged Blade, a greatsword that can create a wall of flame when swung.

THE MOONTIDE

When it was clear that The Moontide (6839) would be dashed against the rocky shore, Nikolai Blumenthal, a high-born Sea Vampire, dove into the stormy seas with his family's prized possession — the Undeath Knell Bell. When the bell is tolled, the dead rise as Sea Vampire Insatiabes, bound in servitude to whoever rings it for one unholy night.

THE MOORFOOT

Long ago, when a rogue wave deposited The Moorfoot deep inland at the top of a grassy hill, it was carrying a locked iron chest whose contents were kept secret from both captain and crew. The chest was later stolen by Jonas Blackheart, who stumbled upon the hilltop wreck. Unable to bypass its magical lock, he hid the chest until he could learn how to retrieve its bounty. The chest contains the legendary sword called Waveparter, which can part an ocean.

See Wreck of the Moorfoot (6538).

THE SUNKEN CITY

Brackish Underlings and a huge Brackish Overlord once ruled an undersea city.

When a long-dead Wizard (Erasmus the Gray) created a vial containing Brackish Essence, the entire civilization of eldritch creatures withered into dead, pale coral.

Knowing the power the vial held, he hid it where no one could find it.

If the vial containing the essence is ever uncorked, the eldritch beings will return to their former glory. They could be strange, powerful allies... or enemies.

See Sunken City (7138) and Fey Sunken City (F702).

ITEMS

ARCHAIC DIVING SUIT

Warped by the Fey Ocean (see Lost Diving Gear F607), these waterproof canvas suits have glass-and-metal helmets that often contain Mind Barnacles.

Uncanny Movement: Change positions, but never if someone looks directly at them. Crawlers hear creaking and dragging sounds, but never witness actual movement.

Risky to Wear. Anyone wearing a diving suit gains underwater breathing, but:

- ★ Donning. Each time suit is donned, a d20 is rolled. On a roll of 1, the crawler is transported to (or from) Fey Ocean into a random water hex on the other hex map.
- ★ Deathly Images. 1:6 chance that wearer may see horrific and often whimsical images that a perished diver saw at the moment they died.

BOTTOMLESS JUG OF GROG

An unbreakable brown jug that fills once per day with a gallon of delicious grog.

BREATHING PACK

Used for underwater breathing, but only if there is underwater light.

See Silas McGraw (pg. 46).

BRACKISH ESSENCE

Corked vial of purple liquid. If opened, begins resurrection of the Brackish race.

It would take a Wish to put the Brackish Essence back into the vial again.

See the Lost Treasures (The Sunken City) (pg. 74) and Hexes 7138 and F702.

ENCHANTED LURE

Can be bewitched to attract a specific aquatic creature. Cost is up to GM, but should scale by level (i.e. 10 gp x LV).

FLASH POWDER

Must be refined then mixed with sulfur and charcoal to create gunpowder (hard, not impossible, for crawlers to create).

GOGGLES OF SORROS

While worn, a phantom green hand holding a torch appears. The wearer can see underwater as if carrying a torch, though the light is visible only to them.

Risk. Roll a d20 when these are worn. On a roll of 1, their magic expires.

LAVA-FORGED BLADE

+2 Greatsword forged long ago inside the Red Tantrum (6234).

Stats. Melee, Close range, 1d12 damage
2-Handed, takes up 2 gear slots

Flame Wall. At the wielder's will, can create a wall of flame when swung. The wall can be up to Near in length or surround the wielder in a Close circle.

LEVIATHAN SKIN ARMOR

Armor made from the skin of a Shadow Leviathan in the darkness of The Twilight Zone (F206).

Stats. Gear Slots (-1), Move underwater without restriction, AC 14 + DEX mod, DISADV on stealth checks out of water (armor squeaks like rubber boots)

MACE OF MONDÜR

The wizard (now dead) who created Toby, the White Worm in The Slaughtering Hole Tavern in Barnacle Bay (6733), made him nearly invincible. Simultaneously, he forged this mace in the event that the worm ever needed to be destroyed. A single hit from the Mace of Mondür will destroy Toby. When used against any other target, it functions as a normal mace.

MAGICAL PAINTS

Colorful paints harvested from tentacles of Giant Sea Cucumbers, can be used to make one of the following (1/day):

Illusory Image. Paint a surface (up to 5 feet in any direction) to change its appearance (e.g. door to look like a wall, object to blend in with background). Anyone touching the image will be able to tell it is a fake.

Pigment Guardian. Paint animal symbol, acts as an alarm if anyone comes within Close of the symbol (i.e. roars like a lion if you paint a lion). Painter can hear the sound no matter how far away they are. Image disappears after alarm sounds.

Spectral Trap. Paint a circle (up to 5 feet wide) that can act as a magical snare. A creature (up to Level 4) who steps into the circle is bound with paint that looks like a rope. DC 18 STR to escape.

Temporary Teleportation Circle. Paint a one-use teleportation circle (5 feet wide) that links to anywhere painter has been before on same plane of existence. Circle must be used within 1 minute of painting and immediately vanishes after.

MERFOLK CROWN AND TRIDENT

Crown of rigid, dried seaweed and Trident carved from jawbone of a Torch Whale.

Useless worn separately. Together, allow wearer to breathe underwater, speak Merran (Merfolk, Sahuagin, Siren), and gain a swim speed of triple near.

RAINBOW ELIXIR

A mixture made from equal parts of four colors — red, blue, green, and white — gathered from Prismatic Lake (6531).

When consumed, drinker may summon an Elemental (Air, Earth, Fire or Water).

If the drinker shows respect for nature, the Elemental will act as their ally — so long as it is not commanded to act against nature.

Those who drink the potion out of greed or disrespect find the Elemental turns its wrath on them instead.

SCUTTLETON'S LOG

A waterproof ship's log kept by Captain Elias Scuttleton. Written in ink from a Fey Squid, it contains methods for traveling to and from the Fey Ocean.

The log reveals only one entry per day, no matter how many times it is read.

See pg. 63.

SIREN'S CHALICE

Crafted from a mug-sized conch shell.

Once per week, if filled with seawater, the holder may raise the chalice to their ear and hear whispers from the ocean depths. These whispers reveal locations of sunken ships, lost souls, and hints of hidden treasure.

STARFISH BALM

Crystals scraped from the abrasive skin of a rare starfish.. Heals 1d6 and grants ADV on the next round after it is consumed.

TIDECALLER

Wand made from driftwood floating in the Fey Ocean.

Control Seas (1/month). On a full moon, can control the tides in an area up to a Far distance (lasts 1d4 hours). When used, roll a d20. On a roll of 1, permanent swirling storm is created at sea, covering hex where wand was used.

TORCHJELLY SACK

Sack of glowing jellyfish for underwater light.

See Silas McGraw (pg. 46).

UNDEATH KNELL BELL

Chest-sized bell, it is a Blumenthal family heirloom (see Vampire Wreck 6839).

Once per month, when tolled, up to ten dead (within Far) rise as Sea Vampire Insatiable bound in servitude to whoever rings the bell. Lasts one unholy night.

WAVEPARTER

Greatsword that can be swung at the ocean and part the waves for one day.

Allows the wielder to carve a path across the ocean floor with high, sheer walls of water on either side.

WHALE WAX LAMP

Filled with wax from the cranial cavity of a Torch Whale. Burns twice as long and casts light twice as far as normal torch, and cannot be extinguished with water.
